Capital Planning Solutions Incorporated (CPSI) is pleased and proud to announce the acquisition of the intellectual property, including the highly successful ReCAPP® and the newly developed TCPS® systems, created by Physical Planning Technology Incorporated (PPTI).

Alan Gordon, President of CPSI said: “We are very excited to have exclusive access to the ground breaking technologies created by PPTI. We also are delighted to inform our clients that our firm has retained the key players in the design, development, and deployment of these capital-planning modules. The addition of these software systems and methodologies, coupled with our expanding team of physical asset management professionals, will enable CPSI to create cost effective and environmentally sound capital planning systems for public or private, large or small organizations in the services and manufacturing sectors.”

The Total Capital Planning Solution built on the success of ReCAPP®, links corporate planning and financial management with an organization’s unique operational focus and their capital requirements. The technology provides organizations with appropriate skill sets and effective tools to define and develop capital asset programs, and it also ensures strategic and regulatory issues, as well as function and cash flows, are considered when making renewal and replacement decisions. The TCPS® solution provides organizations with a business case analysis model for capital asset planning and is designed to guide priorities, approvals, and cost effective execution of capital asset decisions in the costly world of capital planning.

Capital Planning Solutions Inc. is a privately owned, Canadian group of companies dedicated to creating effective management and capital asset planning tools for our clients across North America and in Europe.
